

Techadox

The only technology platform that provides Managed Delivery and Assisted Insourcing to meet your business's total field service needs.

We take the uncertainty out of contingent labor

Overview

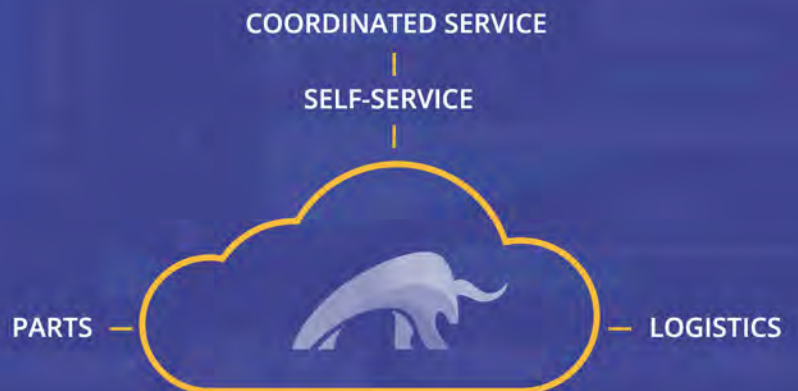

Online labor marketplaces are arguably becoming one of the fastest-growing segments of today's technology-fueled economy. Driven by fast applications, spanning cultures, business sectors, and ideologies, the transformation of work is well underway. But with this transformation, comes a new and unique set of challenges.

We picked up on these challenges when we first started to navigate the contingent work market online. While servicing our clients, we noticed that job boards and online labor marketplaces leave a lot to be desired. Most applications simply send a prayer and "shoot from the hip" to make the right match between projects and technicians. This results in very little protection or transparency for either side, and ultimately a buyer-beware market.

"There has to be a better way," we thought to ourselves. How can we help businesses with IT projects better communicate with quality field service technicians? What can we do to bridge the gaps that exist in online labor marketplaces? These were a couple of the early questions that helped us conceptualize Techadox, and are still some of our core motivators today.

Our Vision

At Techadox, we envision a community of businesses and field service technicians working in perfect harmony for collaborative success. We are driven by providing better connections, and better work output, through our enhanced technology, resources, and support.

Our Platform

We combined over 50 years of experience in Contingent Labor, Desktop Engineering, Networking, Project and Infrastructure Management, Network Marketing, Staff Augmentation and IT Training to create the perfect platform for a dynamic labor environment.

Enabling tomorrow's workforce today.

Coordinated Service

Put field technology on cruise control

Techadox connects you with the workforce you need and handles the assignment, deployment, and payment of technicians for your business.

Self Service

Easy do-it-yourself (DIY) options

Create, employ, and scale a custom network of field technicians. Automate your delivery operations and workforce recruitment.

Parts

Access on-demand hardware support

From wiring to routers, to switches and screens, we've negotiated preferred pricing with our parts partners to help you managed project costs.

Logistics

Finish your jobs faster

Our partners' tracking system and shipping expertise allow us to get the technician and parts your project needs to the right place and on time.

TECHADOX
Field Technology. Connected.